How did Pembridge experience WW2?	local	Shobdon Airfield With the outbreak of war in September 1939, one of the first priorities of the British High Command was to secure the country against any invasion plans that Hitler might already have. With this in mind new airfields were required and in 1940 Pembridge Landing Ground opened. In 1941, Pembridge Landing Ground began upgrading to the status of a proper airfield and by May 1942 and the site was renamed Shobdon Airfield.  Rotherwas Munitions Factory  In total, 35 bombing raids are recorded as having been carried out on Herefordshire. Can you plot where these attacks took place? 	• Use four and six-figure grid references on Ordnance Survey maps. • Use multiple maps to identify how the topography and placement of a location affects its use. • Explain why the physical geography of a location caused it to be targeted by German bomb attacks. • Identify reasons for the change in cultural diversity during WW2. • Provide justification for Shobdon being an ideal location for an airfield. • Describe land-use patterns and understand how some of these aspects have changed over time.
